

MUSICIAN OF FAME BUYS CAR

*Joseph Smith Purchases
Third Machine of Model
Sold on Coast*

See who owns a new Chrysler Imperial 80 sportif phaeton; Joseph C. Smith, himself. Joe has been one of the topnotchers in musical circles in this country, Canada and Europe since 1914. His orchestra is heard on the Victrola, for he was connected with the Victor Talking Machine Company for over nine years, and produced such popular numbers as "Tell Me," "Smiles," "Three o'Clock in the Morning," "Missouri Waltz" and hundreds of others.

Joe landed in Los Angeles a few weeks ago and decided the first thing he had to have was an automobile. Having had the distinction of taking delivery of the first Chrysler 70 roadster and also the first Imperial sedan in Montreal, Can., while he was entertaining at the Mt. Royal Hotel, he now adds to that distinction by taking delivery of the third Chrysler sportif on the Pacific Coast.

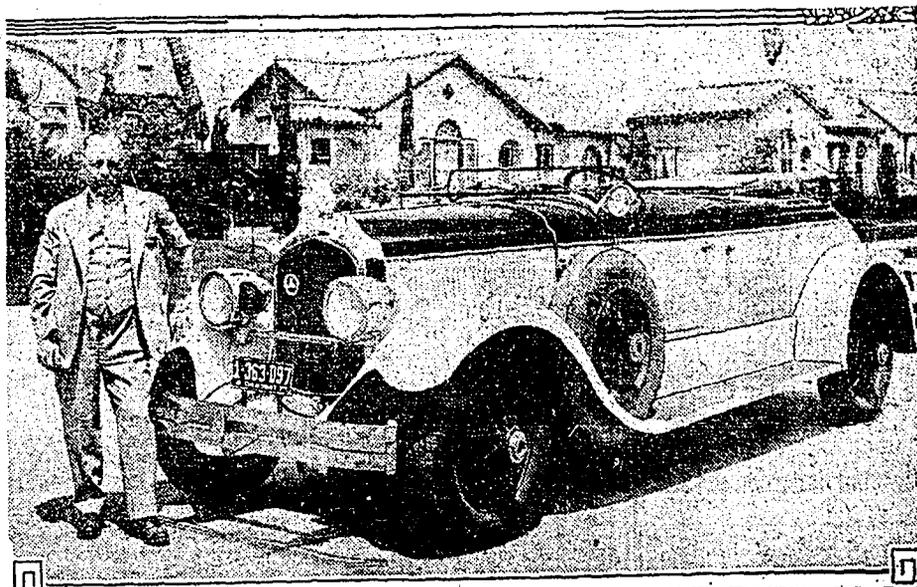

He phoned Floyd Manges, manager of the Western-avenue house of the Greer-Robbins Company, Chrysler distributors for Southern California, and asked what he had to offer by way of something different in automobiles. Floyd, being quite proud of the new Imperial 80 sportif model, bubbled over with enthusiasm and started to tell Smith all about the car. Smith evidently believed what Manges said, for that same afternoon he bought the car and drove it up in front of his new home, 742 South Highland, and called Mrs. Smith to come and look at their new Chrysler.

SPECIAL LIKED

Nash sales reports indicate that the special six series (the middle-size Nash model) is proving extremely popular in Southern California.

British women now have the right to pilot passenger airplanes throughout Europe.

Something in Autos That Is Different

Joseph C. Smith, popular Victor artist and his Chrysler Imperial 80 sportif phaeton, the third delivered on the Pacific Coast.